

Andrew Barr – Oamaru Stone Carving

Andrew has been working with Oamaru stone for several years after discovering a passion for sculpting while travelling in India. Having settled in Ettrick, he loves to recreate nature's flowing forms, referencing the contrasts in Central Otago's iconic landscapes.

<https://www.facebook.com/AndrewBarrSculpture>

Marion Mewburn - Pottery

Marion Mewburn fashions her distinctive teapots and other ceramics at her Millers Flat studio, from where they find their way into galleries all over New Zealand.

This workshop will focus on domestic pieces.

As pottery takes time to dry and fire, this workshop will be held on Sat/Sun 30/31.8.

<http://www.centralotagoarts.com/arts-directory/view.130/>

Rachel Hirabayashi – Wire Sculpture

Based in Cromwell, prolific artist Rachel Hirabayashi paints, draws and creates kinetic sculptures from various metals such as iron, tin and copper. Her works celebrate the enjoyment of movement and provide visually pleasing forms while juxtaposing mass and fragility. Small-scale sculpting in metal is the focus of this workshop.

www.rachelhirabayashi.co.nz

Inge Doesburg – Printmaking

German-born Inge immigrated to NZ and majored in printmaking at the Otago School of Arts. Since then she has ventured into mixed media and painting and her works are in international collections.

This workshop will be about a technique involving cardboard and printing on sheets of material. It's very hands on and will likely result in large works.

<http://ingedoesburg.com>

Barbara Fraser – Watercolour Painting

Barbara has specialised in watercolour painting for several years, mainly inspired by flowers and plants, and also paints and exhibits in acrylics and oils. This course will be for those new to watercolours and for those who have had some experience in this medium and want to explore further techniques.

www.barbarafraser.co.nz

Helen Pluck - Stained Glass

Helen has been working with glass for the last 6 years, having started while travelling in her house bus around NZ.

She is highly skilled in this field and has taught many people the basics of glass art.

This class will give you the time to really immerse yourself in the delicacies of cutting, shaping and putting together a beautiful hanging piece of glass art.